

Disclaimer:

The views and opinions expressed in the various press reports, research reports, articles and features about the Company, do not necessarily reflect the official position of the Company and may contain projections, forecasts, other predictive statements and forward trends, circumstances and factors which involve risk variables and uncertainties. The actual performance of the Company may vary from those projected.

The press releases and other communication issued by the Company may contain forward looking information to enable investors to comprehend the Company's prospects and the anticipated results based on management's plans and assumptions. Even if the management is of the opinion that the assumptions and estimates are appropriate, the actual future results depend on a variety of factors including the overall economic environment, changes in the industry, etc.

The prospective investors in the Company are cautioned that such forward looking statements, predictions, etc. in reports published or broadcast and in communication issued by the Company, may be subject to change. Should known or unknown risk of uncertainties materialise or should the assumptions made prove inaccurate, the actual results can vary materially from those anticipated or projected.

It is neither the intention of the Company nor does the Company accept a special obligation to publicly update statements relating to the future in order to align them with events or developments that take place after the publication or broadcast of any news, research reports, articles, or features, etc.

Past performance is not a guide for future performance. Investment in equity involves a certain degree of risk and future returns are not guaranteed. Investors may suffer losses and are advised to exercise due caution when making any investment.